6. Buying food for the family
 7. Collecting and disposing of garbage
 8. Folding laundry

Reading Text

Read the text and do the tasks that follow.

"Clean that pigsty of a room. Right now!" Virginia shouted to her teenage daughter as she peered through the bedroom door after a long day of work. The daughter, sitting cross-legged on the floor, looked up from her math homework with a shocked but otherwise disgusted glare.

The nightly conflict had begun at its usual time, precisely 6:05 p.m. The scenario is all too common for anyone who has repeatedly battled with their children over household chores.

What is the "magic formula" to get children to clean their rooms, help with the laundry, cook, wash dishes, or do any number of the daily tasks that keep homes up and running? Dismayed parents often wonder where they went wrong.

"I remember when I was her age," says a bewildered Virginia, referring to Terri, her 15-year-old daughter. "I had twice as much work to do around the house. I wouldn't have dreamed of blowing off the responsibility. Kids today have it too easy."

According to the results of a recent survey conducted for the Soap and Detergent Association, 25 percent of responding parents admitted that they constantly nag their children about cleaning their rooms. Other tasks, such as picking up dirty clothes, returning soiled dishes to the sink, or hanging up wet towels, were causes for concern among parents.

The truth is, today's kids may be contributing more than parents are giving them credit for, says Sampson Lee Blair, a family sociologist at Arizona State University (ASU). His research found that children ages 6 to 18 contribute 12 percent of all household labor. He found that nine out of 10 American kids contribute to the household chores at some level.

"The amount of work that children contribute to the family is essential," says Blair. "As an employer, could you imagine losing 12 percent of your work force? It would be devastating."

Blair has studied family dynamics for a decade. He looks at specific roles within family structure and at how families divvy up household chores. His findings are interesting. He thinks that most contemporary parents are not necessarily as concerned with teaching these developmental skills as they are with the pragmatic aspect.

(Lynette Summerill – The Chore of Chores)

a) Answer the following questions.

1. What problems do parents usually have with their children over household chores?
2. What did Virginia complain about her daughter over domestic chores?

READING

Before You Read

Work in pairs. Answer the following questions.

1. Do Vietnamese people often use their first name or last name when addressing someone both formally and informally?
2. When do Americans and Europeans address someone with a title and the last name – in a formal or informal situation?
Give examples.

Reading Text

Read the text and do the tasks that follow.

Every country has its own codes of etiquette. For example, it is common for people in the United States and in Britain to use first names quickly, even in a letter or a fax. Such instant familiarity is much less acceptable in the rest of Europe and Asia, where even business partners and colleagues of many years' acquaintance address each other by the equivalent of Mr., Mrs., Ms., or Miss with the last name. Therefore, when addressing a European, we should stick to the last name unless he / she suggests that we use his / her first name. Also, we should not interpret the other person's formality as stiffness or unfriendliness. On the other hand, if a partner with a North American or British background uses our first names right away, we shouldn't be surprised.

In many Western countries, including the United States, a person who does not maintain good eye contact is regarded as being a slightly suspicious, or dishonest person. Americans tend to associate people who avoid eye contact as unfriendly, insecure, untrustworthy, and inattentive. In contrast, the Japanese lower their eyes when they speak to a superior to show a gesture of respect. In Latin America as well as in some African cultures, people have longer looking time, but prolonged eye contact from an individual of lower status is considered disrespectful. In the United States, it is considered rude to stare, regardless of who is looking at whom. In contrast, the polite Englishman is taught to pay strict attention to a speaker, to listen carefully, and to blink his eyes to let the speaker know he or she has been understood as well as heard. A widening of the eyes can be interpreted differently, depending on circumstances and cultures. Regardless of the language being used, an American may interpret a Chinese person's widened eyes as an expression of astonishment instead of its true meaning – politely expressing anger.

(Adapted from Managing Cultural Differences, by Philip R. Harris and Robert T. Moran)

a) Match each of the following words or phrase in A with its definition or equivalent in B.

A	B
1. codes of etiquette	a. accepted way of doing things
2. interpret	b. not confident about oneself
3. formality	c. not dependable
4. suspicious	d. describe the meaning of
5. insecure	e. rules about behavior in a particular culture
6. untrustworthy	f. position
7. inattentive	g. making someone feel that one is dishonest
8. status	h. not listening or watching carefully

b) Read the following statements and check (✓) T (True) or F (False). For the false statements, write the correct information.

	T	F
1. Most Americans use the first name very quickly when addressing their new acquaintance.	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
2. An Asian's formal behavior may be interpreted as friendly by a European.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>

3. Good eye contact is highly appreciated in many Western cultures.

4. The Japanese often lower their eyes to show respect to their superiors.

5. A polite American tends to stare at his / her partner to show his attentiveness.

6. A Chinese often shows his interest by widening his eyes.

c) Complete the following paragraph with the words from the box.

untrustworthy	disrespect	attention	contact
astonishment	inattentive	respect	politeness

In many Western societies, good eye (1)_____ is often highly appreciated. In the United States, for example, a person who tries to avoid eye contact is regarded as being (2)_____ and unfriendly. In Europe, if you don't look straight at your teacher's eyes while he or she is explaining the lesson, you may be regarded as a(n) (3)_____. On the other hand, to show (4)_____ to a superior, a Japanese often lowers his / her eyes. In some African cultures, people often have a prolonged look, but prolonged eye contact from a person of a lower status is interpreted as a sign of (5)_____. In Britain, to express (6)_____, you should show that you pay close (7)_____ to a speaker by blinking your eyes. A person's widened eyes may be interpreted differently in different cultures. The Chinese widen their eyes to politely express anger, whereas the Europeans regard this expression as a sign of (8)_____.

WRITING

Writing a Paragraph about a Typical Product of a Culture

a) Read the following paragraph and do the two tasks that follow.

I have been traveling to different parts of my country, and I have learned a lot about interesting lifestyles and customs. In many ethnic villages I went to, I was impressed by some of their beautiful traditional customs. For instance, most of the villagers lived in extended families, and they held a close relationship among family members. In addition, young people always showed respect for their ancestors and for elderly people. People were also willing to give a hand when someone was in need. Members of the family helped one another with household chores as well as with farm work. While men were working in the fields, women were doing the household chores. While we were staying there, the villagers always gave us a helping hand and invited us to have dinner with their families on special occasions. In short, I highly valued the close ties in human relationship shown in the villagers' ways of living.

1) Fill in the missing parts in the outline.

Outline

1. Topic sentence: In many ethnic villages I went to, I was impressed by some of their beautiful traditional customs.

Reading Text

Now read through the passage and do the tasks that follow.

PASCAGOULA HIGH SCHOOL

Finally, it is important to note that some of the discipline problems teachers face in their classroom have their origin in the home. Living in a fast-paced and mobile society has created family stresses that could not have been imagined by our grandparents. Their life while growing up was not any easier than today's life. In fact, it is assuredly different, particularly regarding the intensity and rapidity with which children today experience various developmental stages. According to some social studies, boys and girls are reportedly maturing five years earlier than they did 50 years ago. This means that they are coming under the influence of emotions relating to sex, aggression, competitiveness, and so on, far earlier than their mothers and fathers did.

The average seventh- or eighth-grade teacher is no longer even surprised by the depth of understanding and ability of young students to imitate the attractive images of adult behavior and lifestyles so often found in today's media. These generational differences are sometimes even more difficult for parents to accept than for you, the teacher. This often leads to serious conflicts at home that appear in your classroom as seemingly minor but repeated misbehavior. There is little influence you can have over home conflicts, except to understand that they originate in the home and not in your classroom. There will be times when no amount of reward or punishment will work, because the source of the problem is within the home and may be far more serious than you suppose. These are not unimportant for students, especially when combined with the social and academic demands of school, the uncertainties of a future job or education, and the tension that school-age children always feel between youth and adulthood.

a) Match each of the following words in A with its definition or equivalent in B.

A	B
1. fast-paced	a. becoming an adult
2. mobile	b. feelings such as happiness, love, fear, anger, etc.
3. assuredly	c. with a fast speed
4. maturing	d. states of doubt about the future or about what is the right thing to do
5. emotions	e. moving easily from one job, home, or social class to another
6. average	f. typical, normal
7. misbehaviors	g. behaviors that are not acceptable to others
8. uncertainties	h. definitely

b) Based on the information in the passage, check whether the following statements are true (T) or false (F).

1	T	F
1. Most discipline problems caused by students start from their families.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
2. Society is changing more rapidly, constantly, and intensively than it was in the past.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
3. Children in secondary schools are taller and bigger than they were half a century ago.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
4. Teenage students are affected by TV, newspapers, the Internet, etc.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
5. It is easier for the teacher to sympathize with generational differences than for parents.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
6. As a result, the teacher is in the best position to solve students' conflicts at home.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
7. Educators should understand that disciplinary actions do not always work with students.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
8. Students' difficulties may be worsened by problems concerning their development and worries.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

c) Give short answers to the following questions.

1. What has caused family stresses for young people?
2. Why isn't it easy for parents and grandparents to understand their children and grandchildren?
3. According to the studies quoted, did the parents come under the influence of emotions as the boys and girls do today? Is there any difference between the two generations?
4. Do most secondary school teachers find it shocking when their students understand adult behavior and lifestyles very well?
5. What is the warning possibly implied by the advice that teachers should understand that students' misbehaviors in the classroom may originate from their families and not in the classroom?

d) Discuss these questions with a partner.

1. Have you ever been disciplined at school?
2. What punishment was it? Looking back, do you think it was fair?
3. What would you like it to have been?

Talking About Vietnamese Studies

a) Work in pairs. Read the following brochure of the Vietnamese Studies Program at the University of Social Sciences & Humanities (USSH) and check the best answers.

This is an interdisciplinary program leading to a bachelor's degree. The flexible curriculum encourages students to pick up the subjects of various disciplines depending on their needs: language study, literature, history, sociology, political science, economics, philosophy, and education. In particular, with our collaboration with regional universities, the "Transnational Study" course is a gateway for those who are also interested in exchange courses with Southeast Asian and Chinese institutions.

Also, there are "All-You-May-Need" courses to equip those from multinationals, diplomatic missions, non-profit and for-profit organizations with the basics of Viet Nam and its language and people, hopefully ensuring their successful and enjoyable assignments.

Besides, our cultural discovery tours to scenic and historic spots around Viet Nam bilingually guided by volunteers from the Faculty of English Linguistics & Literature will make your study quite an experience.

1. The Vietnamese Studies program is flexible because _____.
 - A. it allows students to select the subjects that suit their needs
 - B. its students can choose the schedules of their classes
 - C. no particular commitment is required of students
2. Which of the following is unlikely to be a course offered by the program?
 - A. The Open-Door Policy's Impact on Viet Nam's Economy.
 - B. Foreign Influence on Viet Nam's Development.
 - C. Women's Liberation in Viet Nam.
3. The survival courses aim at the following target learners: (more than one check)
 - A. Employees from international organizations.
 - B. Employees from international missions.
 - C. Employees from multinationals' representative offices.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES IN VIET NAM

1. Applicants are required to take the National Entrance Examinations before being admitted to higher education institutions. Application forms for these examinations must be submitted before the deadline, often in April. An application fee must be included.
2. Application for admission will not be processed without a high school diploma; so high school students have to pass the National High School Graduation Exam in early June.
3. The National Entrance Examinations are held in early July, and results will be notified in late August. Applicants can take the National Entrance Examinations wherever their application forms are submitted.
4. Acceptance notices will be sent to applicants whose scores meet the requirements of admission. Copies of their academic records should be submitted in time before the new school year.

FRESHMAN APPLICATION PROCEDURES IN THE U.S.A.

Students are required to complete the following steps when applying for admission as first-time freshmen:

1. An application for admission must be completed. Application forms can be obtained from the institution's admissions office. An application fee must be included.
2. Official high school transcripts must be sent to the institution's admissions office before the deadline. An official GED Certificate may be used in the absence of a high school diploma.
3. The scores on either the SAT or the ACT must be submitted. Colleges and universities use these scores to help predict a student's future success in higher education. High school students usually take these examinations in their junior year or early in their senior year.

INTERNATIONAL APPLICATION PROCEDURES IN THE U.S.A.

In addition to the freshman application procedures above, international students must complete the following:

1. All high school transcripts must be translated into English and certified by appropriate authorities.
2. Applicants whose native language is not English must submit results of the TOEFL test with required scores.
3. Applicants must be able to support themselves and / or able to prove financial support from a sponsor. Submit the affidavit of support and financial documents.
4. If you are admitted, you will receive an acceptance letter. You will receive Form I-20 or the Certificate of Eligibility signed by a school official after you have made a deposit on your first semester student bill. You must have Form I-20 to apply for your F-1 student visa.

READING

Read the following passage and do the tasks below.

Laurence Sterne was an Irishman who spent the greater part of his life as a clergyman in England. The following extract is about a journey of his through France. One evening, being away from any town, he was glad to see a house a short distance from the road.

It was a little farmhouse surrounded with a vineyard and a cornfield. It was about eight in the evening when I got to the house. The family consisted of an old gray-headed man and his wife with five or six sons and sons-in-law, and their several wives, and a group of cheerful children. They were all sitting together to their evening meal.

The old man rose up to meet me, and with a respectful cordiality invited me to sit down at the table. So I sat down at once like a son of the family. And to invest myself in the character of a son as quickly as I could, I instantly borrowed the old man's knife, and, taking up the loaf, cut myself a hearty portion. And, as I did so, I saw a testimony in every eye, not only of an honest welcome, but of a welcome mixed with thanks that I had not seemed to doubt it.

When supper was over, the old man gave a knock on the table with the handle of his knife, to bid them prepare for the dance. The moment the signal was given, the women and girls ran into a back apartment to tie up their hair; and the young men to the door to wash their faces and change their wooden shoes. And in three minutes every soul was ready upon a little esplanade before the house to begin. The old man told me that all his life long he had made it a rule, after supper was over, to call out his family to dance and rejoice, believing, he said, that a cheerful and contented mind was the best sort of thanks to heaven that an illiterate peasant could pay.

(Adapted from Laurence Sterne - Sentimental Journey Through France and Italy)

A Job Interview

A job interview is your chance to show an employer what he or she will get if you are hired. That is why it is essential to be well-prepared for the job interview. (1)_____ It also means paying attention to details like personal appearance, punctuality, and demeanor.

Before the interview, you should gather as much information about the company and the employer as you can. Not only will you appear informed and intelligent but you will also make a decision if a job offer is eventually made. You might also want to prepare for answering questions by listing some of your attributes. Remember that appearance is very important. (2)_____. You should match your dress to employees in the workplace where you are applying. You should come on time for the interview.

During the interview, you should speak slowly and clearly. Eye contact is very important but make sure it looks natural. (3)_____. People say that body language gives more away about us than speech. Usually toward the end of the interview, the interviewer will ask if you have any questions. By asking about a typical day on the job or special projects, you are putting yourself in the job and showing the employer how you will satisfy his / her needs.

After the interview, don't neglect the thank-you note or follow-up letter. It is your chance to reiterate something you mentioned in the interview or bring up something you forgot to mention. (4) _____ It certainly will set you apart from everyone else who forgot to or chose not to do this. Isn't that the kind of person the employer is looking for?

c) Four sentences have been removed from the passage. Choose the one that fits each blank. There is one extra sentence that you do not need.

b) Scan the following text quickly to identify the people in the pictures.

I'm Christine and I'm teaching English in Ho Chi Minh City. I'm too young to have seen the Viet Nam War on television or to have read about it in time of war. My impressions of Viet Nam have been formed from my own experiences since 2000 when I arrived here as a tourist. I love this land, and that's why I returned soon later and looked for work. It's a great time to be in Viet Nam to witness a country in profound change. Doi Moi, an economic policy established in 1986, has encouraged private enterprises. Since then Viet Nam step by step has overcome many difficulties and achieved enormous results – people's living standards have greatly improved. I learned all about this from my students – when they told me stories about themselves and their families.

Hai, a highly-skilled worker, was a state employee earning only US$ 50 a month until he was offered a job in a foreign company in Nhon Trach Industrial Zone. He now earns an equivalent of US$ 250, which is considered a fortune by local standards. Hai's case is typical of the "brain drain" from state to private foreign companies in Viet Nam now.

Nhan, another bright student of mine, is the son of a farmer in Can Tho. He told me the effects of Doi Moi have been felt more drastically in rural Viet Nam. A farmer can now choose what to plant – this decision is based on the price and demand of the market. Before Doi Moi, despite having worked in the field day after day for years, Nhan's parents could hardly earn enough to feed the whole family. Now his family can buy equipment such as mechanized plows and threshing machines that produce higher yields.

One more student is Linh, a typical Vietnamese businesswoman. Gone were the days when college graduates like Linh did not have to worry about a job, thanks to the centralized planning system. A government job promises security, but it is not easy to compete with many others for one now. To avoid unemployment, Linh decided to set up a small business to trade in leather shoes. Now she has branches in three other provinces around Ho Chi Minh City.

My students are still facing a lot of difficulties as competition is becoming tougher, when Viet Nam's goods have to compete with those imported under AFTA, ASEAN Free Trade Area. But they all say they are not frightened. Isn't it wonderful?

c) Which of the following is the best title of the above text?

1. Christine's Life Story
2. Employment in Viet Nam after Doi Moi
3. Doi Moi Witnessed by a Foreign Observer

d) Answer the following questions.

1. What is Doi Moi?
2. Why is Hai's case considered a case of "brain drain"? Do you think Linh's case is also an example of "brain drain"?
3. In what way has Doi Moi affected Nhan's family?

4. Before Doi Moi, could college graduates get a job easily? Why or why not?
5. What problems is Viet Nam's economy facing?

e) Work in groups. Answer this question.

What changes have taken place in your province or neighborhood during the past years?

Read an announcement of the American Red Cross and do the tasks that follow.

Youth Councils

Youth interested in helping out in their community throughout the year may participate in one of our youth councils. Involvement in a Junior Red Cross Council will give students opportunities to promote personal, social, and intellectual growth, as well as civic responsibility. Youth who are in middle or high schools may take part in the Youth Council. This is a great way for young people to serve the community, learn from students of other schools, and earn community service hours for schools or other organizations.

Youth in Action Program

1. Youth in Action Team Activities

Team activities designed by youth volunteers (middle school and high school age groups) are guided by adults and young adult leaders. Volunteer teams receive training in planning and conducting community services, team building, problem solving, and communication skills. Youth in Action teams conduct a wide variety of short-term service projects, long-term service activities, and special community events of their own choosing.

2. Training and Orientation

- Teamwork, leadership, and entrepreneurial skill development will be the basis for uncovering youth interests and applying them in creative ways.
- Youth will receive their own handbooks developed by the Red Cross Youth advisory committee to enhance the training process.
- A pre-survey to determine existing assets will be administered and reviewed at subsequent times to determine growth and progress.
- Orientation, leadership, and teamwork training will provide the basis for enabling youth to work individually or as a team to develop and implement projects.

3. Youth Projects

After completing orientation sessions, youth will identify a need in the community, brainstorm plans, and carry out projects to address that need. The orientation will take place at the Red Cross and various other locations to give youth opportunities to be creative and get involved. In addition,

Youth in Action teams will be the driving force behind youth's projects and will see them through from the original idea to the completion of the project. The dynamics of those projects know no bounds. Youth can visit sick children in hospitals, assist their favorite charity, and improve the community in numerous other ways. In other words, they can create what they think.

Reading Text

Read the text and do the tasks that follow.

(A) It's now 11:55. Carol and Phil are sitting in a restaurant, expecting the first moment of the year 2050. Carol knows that when the clock strikes 12, Phil will kneel at her feet to propose marriage to her, even though they have lived together for 30 years. Thirty years ago, like most young people of their age, they decided to cohabit so that they might pursue their own careers without being disturbed by family responsibilities.

(B) They now have all what they want, except for a child. The only way to have one at the age of 50 is asking the Embryo Bank to send to the City's Embryo Hospital the embryos they deposited before their cohabitation. Tomorrow, they'll go to the Marriage Registry Office and then to the bank to fill in a request form. After that, they'll go to the hospital to tell the doctors what gender, hair color, eye color, and complexion they want their child to possess – and after around nine months' time, they'll have a real happy family with a cute baby!

(C) These days, both of them often discuss where their child, named Chris, will study when he is 7. Carol wants to send Chris to a traditional school, a kind of institution that she used to go to as a schoolgirl. But Phil suggests a modern, world-famous school. This school opens 24 hours a day, and the students may come at different times. Chris will attend any class he likes: If he's interested in math, he'll go to a math class. In the "classroom," there are no teachers but separate booths where Chris may turn the teaching machine on and select the teacher he likes. This teacher will appear on the screen and talk to Chris. To meet individual students' needs is this school's aim.

(D) Another special thing about this school is that it is environment-friendly. Despite the increasing oil prices and the energy crisis affecting most people's life, tuition fees here are quite low and stable, as the energy provided for the school comes from the sun and wind. Life now is more convenient but not easier than it was 50 years ago.

a) Match the paragraphs (A, B, C, or D) with the headings. One heading will not be used.

1. Energy Crisis	Paragraph A _____
2. An Ecological School	Paragraph B _____
3. A Modern School	Paragraph C _____
4. Advances in Medicine	Paragraph D _____
5. Lifestyle

b) Find the words in the text having the following meanings.

Today's Essay

Posted by Kim Yan, South Korea

From tomorrow, I'll go to school by bicycle to build a greener world for the future. No more cars, buses, or even motorbikes – these produce lots of smoke, which pollutes the air. I will also wage a campaign to call on all students in my school to ride a bicycle instead of a motor vehicle. With thousands of students uniting together, I believe we can create a new wave in the community. Everybody will become aware of the need to protect the environment. Although what I can do won't change the world, it can help people in my neighborhood live in a healthy atmosphere.

b) Write a short essay to take part in the Writing Contest mentioned above. The following prompts might help you.

- plant more trees / forbid deforestation
- protect wildlife
- clean up the beach or the neighborhood
- use renewable energy sources

READING

Read the following passage and do the tasks below.

A father came home from work late, tired and irritated, to find his seven-year-old son waiting for him at the door. The boy approached his father. He wanted to know how much his father made a day. The father was so angry at the question. He thought it was none of the son's business. However, the boy insisted on the question, and finally, the father let him know that he made 35 dollars a day. The boy was thoughtful for a while, and then he begged his father to loan him fifteen dollars. The father was so furious and guessed his son would use money to buy some silly toys or some other nonsense. He blamed the boy for being selfish and thoughtless to have such a childish demand while he had been working very hard during the day for their living. He scolded the boy and ordered him to go straight to his room. The boy kept silent and went sobbing to his room.

The father was still angry about his boy's behavior. After about an hour or so, he calmed down and thought that his son might really need fifteen dollars for something important; furthermore, the boy had never asked him for money before. The father went to his son's room and knocked on the door. "Are you asleep, son?" "No, Daddy," the little boy was sobbing.

"I have been thinking, maybe I was too hard on you earlier," said the father. "It's been a long hard day and I took out my irritation on you. Here's the fifteen dollars you asked for." The boy stopped sobbing, and was smiling, "Oh, thank you very much, Daddy." Then, he pulled out some crumbled up bills under his pillow and said, "Now I have enough money." The father was angry again, he grumbled, "Why do you want more money if you already have some?" "Because I don't have enough," replied the boy. "Now I have thirty-five dollars. Daddy, can I buy a day of your time so that you can stay home with me?"

c) Discuss with a partner what happened to the people and places in the following pictures.

Reading Text

Read the following passage and do the tasks that follow.

Fighting Back Desert Expansion

More than a billion people all over the world are under the threat of desert expansion, but few of them are aware that they themselves cause it and are also its victims. People cut down trees for fuel and farmland. Their herds eat up the grass covering valley floors and hillsides. The climate and soil quality, therefore, are affected and forests are turned into deserts.

Efforts have been made to solve the problem. One common method is called "dune fixation": if a fence is built, it "fixes" sand dunes. This fence will prevent the dune from advancing. In Algeria, people planted a green wall of trees across the edge of the Sahara to stop desert sand from spreading. People in other countries around the Sahara built fences made of brushwood or dead palm leaves for the same purpose. Obviously, the Sahara will become much larger unless something continues to be done to solve this problem.

Similarly, life is a constant struggle for those living near the edges of the Gobi Desert. In some places, many people had to leave their homes when their wells became dry and sand buried their houses and crops. Therefore, governments in nearby areas have had local people plant trees and banned burning firewood for fuel. Even Beijing is threatened by sandstorms every year. Strong winds blow sand and dust from the Gobi Desert into Beijing 30 to 40 days a year, so a green wall of forests has been built to protect the city.

In other parts of the world, other techniques have been used. In Iran, a thin covering of oil was poured on sandy areas to retain water for planting trees, but this method may harm the environment. Other countries built long canals or pipelines to carry water to desert areas. A particular technique was also used: people made stone lines along the route of rainwater flow to catch up rainwater and prevent topsoil from washing away. However, these techniques are just temporary. Unless people have more effective methods, their homes and land will be lost. The fight against the desert is continuing.

a) Answer the following questions.

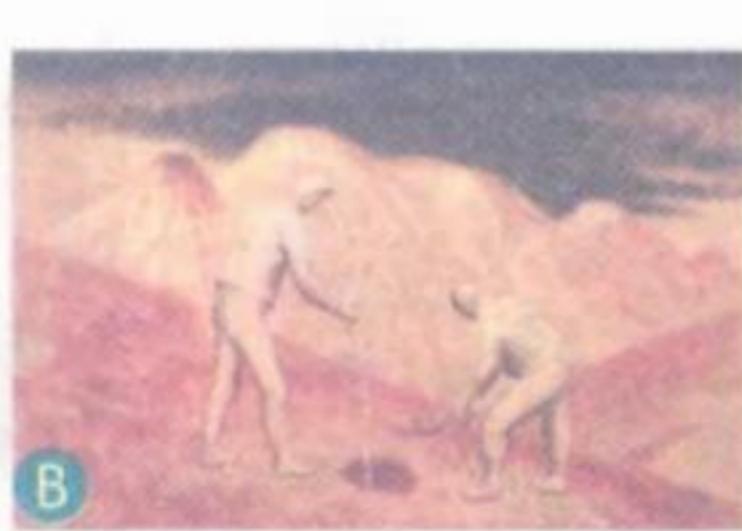

1. What may be the causes of desert expansion?
2. What is "dune fixation"?
3. In what way can Beijing be affected by the Gobi Desert?
4. Which method of stopping desert expansion is harmful to the environment?

b) The following pictures show different ways of fighting back desert expansion. Find the words and expressions in the text to help you describe them.

Example

(Picture A) build fences, brushwood, dead palm leaves, dune fixation ⇒ People build fences made of brushwood or dead palm leaves. This method is called dune fixation.

c) Complete the following summary of the reading text, using no more than three words for each blank.

In many parts of the world, people are suffering desert (1)_____. They have made a lot of (2)_____ to solve the problem. The first way is (3)_____ sand dunes to prevent sand from moving by planting trees or (4)_____ fences. Another measure is (5)_____ for fuel. The third way is (6)_____ on the sand so that water can be retained. Some other (7)_____ methods include building (8)_____ to water dry areas and making stone lines to catch up rainwater.

d) Discuss in groups and answer the questions below.

Do you think some part in Viet Nam may become a desert in the future? Why or why not?

LISTENING

a) Work with a partner and discuss in what ways the animals and fruit in the pictures may help people in the desert survive.

Example

(Picture A) Camels can be used to carry people and heavy things across the desert.

They can also be used as food.

A. camels

B. a goat

C. a sheep

D. dates

b) You will hear an extract from a lecture on food and water in the desert. Listen and correct the inaccurate information in the following statements.

1. People in Sahara oases live mainly on camel meat.
2. All parts of a date palm can be eaten as food.
3. People in the Gobi Desert make their soup by stewing meat.
4. People may get water from underground springs if they get lost in the desert.

c) Listen to the first part again and complete these sentences.

1. Date palms are usually grown in _____.
2. A date is about _____ in length. It contains lots of _____.
3. The ideal food for travelers in the Gobi Desert is _____.
4. _____ provide meat as well as milk for people living in the Gobi Desert.

d) Work in pairs. Tell your partner whether or not you like to live in a desert and give reasons.

SPEAKING

Expressing Possibility

a) With a partner, read the mini-dialogue and pick out the words and expressions of possibility.

What (would you do) if you had to cross a desert?

Perhaps I'd travel at night to avoid the heat during the day.

I'd probably not drive a car, but perhaps I'd find a camel and a guide.

Add more words or expressions to this list of useful expressions.

Possibility

- maybe / perhaps / probably ...
- (I) may / might / could / would ...

b) Imagine that you won a competition and were awarded a tour of the Sahara Desert. Discuss in groups to find some possible ways out of the tricky situations listed below if you were lost in the desert.

The information in the brochure below may help you.

YTC SAHARA TOURS

Possible Tricky Situations

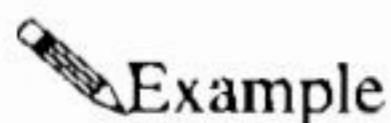

You might need to ...

1. make a signal to attract the rescue team
2. protect yourself from the heat and sunlight
3. find directions – you know an oasis is somewhere in the south
4. reduce body's water loss
5. find water

SURVIVAL TIPS

- WHAT TO BRING
Sunglasses
A large hat
Light-colored clothes
A cigarette lighter or matches
A mirror
A poncho and some sticks
A knife
A wrist compass
- WHAT TO DO
Find a shelter / make your own shelter.
Reduce movements or activities.
Look out for animals - they live near water.

Example

A: What if we got lost in the desert and we needed water?
 B: Perhaps we'd have to look out for animals. They live near water.
 C: We could probably get water from cacti. They contain lots of water; we could use a knife to cut them.

c) In pairs, suggest some things you might want to bring with you if you were going to travel across a desert. Report to your class and explain why these things are necessary for your trip.

Example

Probably we'd bring a lot of cookies. They could help us survive in the desert if we got lost.

WRITING

a) The following sentences make up a paragraph about desert plants. Work in pairs and put them in correct order.

1. If desert plants do not have the ability to adjust to such a severe climate, they'll surely die.
2. The third kind grows leaves during the high moisture period of the year, and these leaves fall when it becomes hot and dry again.
3. Desert plants have their own ways of surviving in very harsh conditions.
4. Some others roll up their leaves during the hottest parts of the day to reduce the area exposed to sunlight or wind.
5. Most of them have very small leaves or no leaves at all. This helps them avoid water loss.

b) This is a rough outline of the paragraph above. Write in the blanks the sentences corresponding to the parts.

Supporting idea 1

Supporting idea 2

Supporting idea 3

Concluding sentence

c) Work with a partner. Discuss the ideas you will use to develop each of the topic sentences below into a paragraph. Then make an outline for each paragraph before writing.

1. Life in or near a desert is very difficult.
2. If you want to travel across a desert, you need to bring with you some essential things.

So, But, However and Therefore

Examples

- Strong winds blow sand and dust from the Gobi Desert into Beijing 30 to 40 days a year, so a green wall of forests has been built to protect the city.
- In Iran, a thin covering of oil was poured on sandy areas to retain water for planting trees, but this method may harm the environment.
- However, these techniques are just temporary.
- The climate and soil quality, therefore, are affected and forests are turned into deserts.

a) Rewrite the following sentences, using however or therefore.

1. Finding water in the forest is relatively easy, but the search for water can become somewhat tenuous in the desert.
2. North American deserts are very diverse, so they provide a good basis for understanding desert ecology.
3. Much of the water in the Great Basin Desert comes from winter snowfall, but not all of this melts into the ground because some of it evaporates in spring.
4. The Mojave Desert has low winter temperatures, so it is regarded as a cold desert.

b) Complete the following sentences with so, therefore, but, or however.

Within the last 100 years, deserts have been growing at a frightening speed. This is partly because of natural changes, (1)_____ the greatest desert makers are humans. There are actually four kinds of deserts: hot, dry deserts; cold deserts; semiarid deserts; and coastal deserts. Yes, there is such a thing as a cold desert. Cold deserts are located near the Arctic region of the world. Very few plants or animals can survive in these deserts. (2)_____, only a few people live there – they are mostly scientists. Hot deserts, (3)_____, are homes to many more people and different kinds of animals. Animals that live in the desert hide out under rocks or in burrows during the day because of the heat, (4)_____ people do not often see them.

Examples

- The Sahara will become much larger unless something continues to be done to solve this problem.
- Unless people have more effective methods, their homes and land will be lost.

a) Rewrite the if-clauses, using unless wherever possible.

1. People living near the edge of the Gobi Desert will leave their homes if sandstorms are not stopped.
2. If it doesn't rain soon, all the plants and trees here will die.
3. I'll be surprised if he doesn't win.
4. If desert plants do not have the ability to adjust to such a severe climate, they'll surely die.
5. What would you do if you didn't have a job?
6. We don't usually go for a walk after dinner if there is a good movie on TV.

b) Make up conditional sentences in two ways: with unless and if, using the correct forms of the verbs given in parentheses.

Example

There (not, be) enough water. We (not, plant) vegetables.

- If there isn't enough water, we won't plant vegetables.
- Unless there is enough water, we won't plant vegetables.

1. People (not, stop) misusing land. Desertification (can, not, be) controlled.
2. A camel (can't, store) fat in its hump. It (die) for lack of food when crossing the desert.
3. This forest (become) a desert. The government (not, ban) cutting down trees.
4. The size of the world's deserts probably (increase). These young trees (not, be) protected well.
5. You (not, be) over 18. You (can't, see) this movie.

Reading Text

Read the passage, and do the tasks that follow.

Rhinoceroses

Rhinoceroses are prehistoric beasts found in parts of Africa and Asia. There are five species of rhinoceros: two African and three Asian. The African species are the white and the black rhinos. Both species have two horns. The Asian rhinos include the Indian and the Javan, each with one horn, and the two-horned Sumatran. Today all five species of rhinos are perilously close to extinction.

Habitat loss has not been a significant factor in the decline of rhinos. It is poaching for their horns that has decreased rhino populations. Asians use powdered rhino horn in traditional medicines because many of them believe that powdered rhino horn might help cure everything from fever to measles, and retain the vigor of youth. Also, young men in the Arab country of Yemen covet rhino horns for elaborately-carved dagger handles, symbols of wealth and status in that country. The value of rhino horn makes it enormously profitable to poach rhinos and sell them on the black market. Because of big profits, poachers never want to stop shooting rhinos, and selling their parts and associated products.

There are some measures carried out to rescue rhinos from extinction. Rhinos are protected and saved by trade regulations, protected areas, and armed guards. At present rhinos are protected under the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora (CITES), an agreement among more than 120 nations to eliminate illegal trade in wild animals and their parts and associated products. Rhinos live in some of the same African parks and reserves that provide habitat for elephants. They are also kept under armed guards because many of them were once killed in protected areas.

a) Fill out the missing information in the grid below.

	African Rhinos	Asian Rhinos
Type of horn	(1) _____	(2) _____
Number of species	(3) _____	(4) _____
Name(s) of species	(5) _____	(6) _____
Status	(7) _____	Close to extinction

b) Answer these questions.

1. How many species of rhinoceros are there?
2. Whereabouts in the world are they found?
3. What causes rhinos to become extinct?
4. How are they protected and saved?

c) Work in groups. Discuss and suggest ways to protect and save rare animals in your local area.

LISTENING

a) Work in groups. Discuss where the following animals live (habitat), what they eat (food), and why they become extinct (cause of extinction). Complete the table with the information provided below.

- HABITATS: – in the rain forests in South America

Reading Text

Now read through the passage and give short answers to the questions that follow. The paragraphs are marked A, B, C ... for convenient reference.

Below is a characteristic passage from the novel Emma by Jane Austen – a British woman writer. The village of Highbury is in an excited gossip because Mr. Elton has just become engaged to a certain Miss Hawkins:

Par. A

Human nature is so well disposed towards those who are in interesting situations that a young person who either marries or dies is sure of being kindly spoken of.

Par. B

A week had not passed since Miss Hawkins's name was first mentioned in Highbury before she was, by some means or other, discovered to have every recommendation of person and mind – to be handsome, elegant, excellent, and perfectly likeable; and when Mr. Elton himself arrived [...], there was very little more for him to do than to tell her Christian name, and say whose music she mainly played.

Par. C

The tone is so quiet that we get almost a shock at the putting together of "marries or dies" in the first sentence. Surely to marry and to die are very different things. But in this village, where marriages and deaths are infrequent and important events, both of them equally excite "kindly" gossip. The observation is admittedly sensitive and independent.

Par. D

The next paragraph reveals how the gossip about Miss Hawkins is before her arrival, and how the local people determine her appearance and character before they have seen her. When Mr. Elton comes, there is nothing for him to give but one or two unimportant details, such as her Christian name and the name of her favorite composer. Jane Austen seems to write as though she agrees with the gossip. She doesn't say that the local people were mistaken, but her tone implies it. Miss Hawkins is clearly too perfect – "handsome, elegant, excellent, and perfectly likeable." The phrase that tells how they discovered this – "by some means or other" – throws doubt on its reliability. Anyone familiar with Austen's novels will recognize the style as typical of hers – sensitive, seriously polite, and delicate but with sharp-edged irony.

a) Choose the best answers.

1. Which of the following best describes Jane Austen?
A. She was a British woman. B. She was a novelist.
C. She was in fact Miss Hawkins. D. She was a Highbury villager.
2. "Characteristic" in the first sentence of paragraph A is similar in meaning to _____.
A. typical B. having a lot of characters
C. of best quality D. recognizable
3. Which of the following is similar in meaning to "disposed" in the first sentence of paragraph B?
A. determined B. well-prepared
C. agreeable D. inclined
4. How many paragraphs are there in the extract from Jane Austen's Emma?
A. Two. B. Three.
C. Four. D. Five.
5. According to Austen's novel, what is the relationship between Miss Hawkins and Mr. Elton?
A. Husband and wife. B. Brother and sister.
C. Fiancé and fiancée. D. Villagers.

6. Who is/are praised for having the observation that is "admittedly sensitive and independent"?

A. The villagers. B. Miss Hawkins and Mr. Elton.

C. The author of the passage. D. Jane Austen.

7. "The next paragraph" in the first sentence of paragraph E refers to _____.

A. paragraph E B. the one following paragraph E

C. paragraph D D. paragraph C

8. Which word(s) in the underlined sentence in paragraph E indicate(s) the implication of the author of the reading passage that the rumors about Miss Hawkins are not believable?

A. "clearly" B. "too perfect"

C. "handsome, elegant, excellent" D. "perfectly likeable"

b) Complete the following sentences. Use words from the text.

1. Marriages and deaths cause gossip among the villagers in Emma because they are both _____ and _____ happenings.

SPEAKING

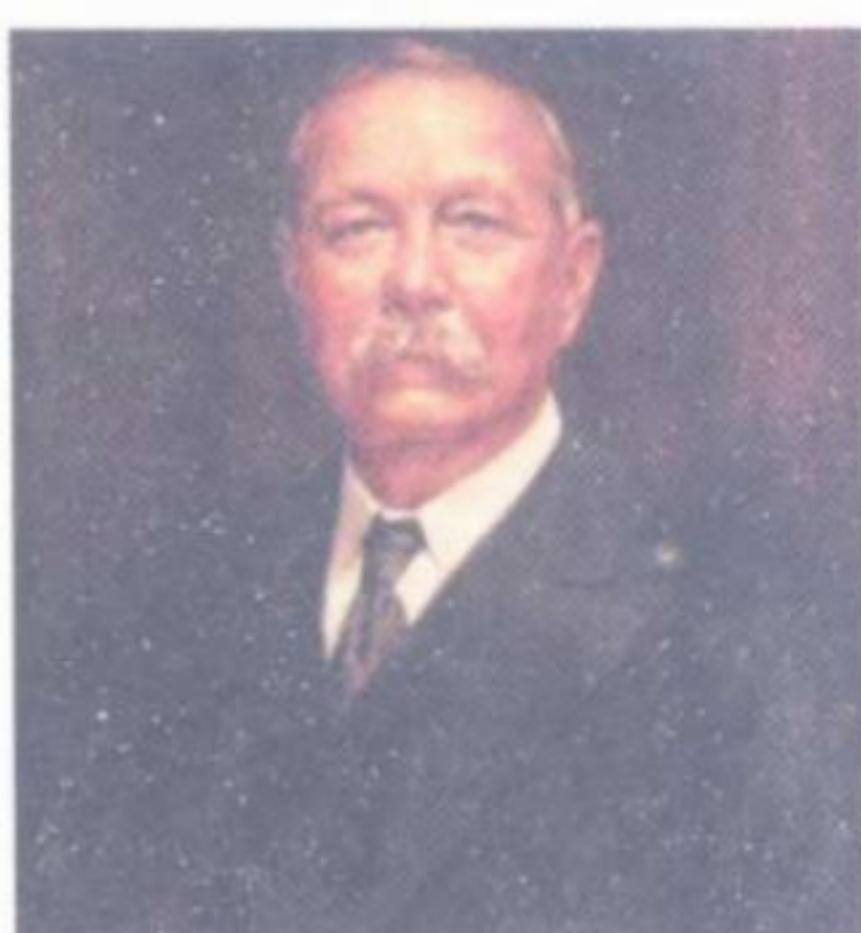

Evoking and Expressing Opinions

a) Read quickly the conversation and check the correct answers.

Minh: What do you think about detective stories?

Tung: I think they're very good for teenagers like us. In fact, I like reading detective stories very much, especially those by Doyle.

Minh: Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, you mean?

Tung: Exactly. He's an author who writes exciting stories about the brilliant Sherlock Holmes.

Minh: I'd be interested to know your further thoughts on that detective.

Tung: Well, in my opinion, he's a genius detective. I really admire his intelligence and bravery.

Minh: It sounds like he's your hero.

Tung: You can say that again. He's not just quick-minded or brave. He's very sensitive and observant as well.

Minh: You're right. He can understand people and their feelings very quickly and is very good at noticing things.

Question

According to Tung, Sherlock Holmes has these qualities:

<input type="checkbox"/> intelligent	<input type="checkbox"/> courageous

b) Get a partner and you two talk about each other's opinions on a certain kind of book, writer, or character. You may use these hints. Don't forget to alternate the roles.

Prompts

- Picture books
 - + Most publications are translations, some of which are culturally inappropriate.
 - + too much violence
 - + curt language
 - + Vietnamese writers' works would be welcomed; Than Dong Dat Viet, for instance, has been a big success.
 - + More funding to the writing of picture books
 - + Stronger promotion to encourage the reading of books by Vietnamese writers
- Literature books
 - + not enough good stories or novels for teenagers
 - + careless translators
 - + careless publishers
 - + writing contests to be organized, e.g., Tuoi Tre newspaper-organized Sang Tac Cho Tuoi Doi Muoi

a) Read the paragraph and check whether the following statements are true (T) or false (F).

Readers of The Last Leaf by O. Henry perhaps will never forget Old Behrman for his admirable deed – sacrificing his own life to save that of the young lady Johns, who is not his relation in any way. Except for one short paragraph, there is almost nowhere else that the writer describes the great old man – Old Behrman. As for such a man, in fact, there is no abundance of words that can give readers a picture of him, because his deed alone is enough for him to be enlisted among the greatest heroes. Being "a failure in art" and having never realized his dream of painting a masterpiece, he has admittedly managed to do much more than that by painting the leaf during the dreadful night – wet, icy, and cold – in spite of his pneumonia and old age and thus his life to save Johns's hope and accordingly her life. The greatest masterpiece should be able to do something for life and Old Behrman's death – not driven by the thirst for fame – has been able to do more than is expected – life-saving and thus life-improving. Is there any other masterpiece greater than the sacrifice of one's life for another?

	T	F
1. Old Behrman and Miss Johns are uncle and niece.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
2. O. Henry is the author of The Last Leaf .	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
3. Old Behrman once painted a masterpiece but he himself has not realized it.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
4. The old man is suffering from a lung illness.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
5. The leaf is painted in bad weather conditions before the morning comes.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
6. Since Old Behrman paints the leaf in the dreadful night, he falls ill and, as a result, passes away.	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

b) Write a description of a character in a story or novel you have read.

The description of a character should:

- generalize about the character with a topic sentence, which normally comes first.
- highlight the most striking feature of the character.

Grammar

Transitive and intransitive Verbs

- Transitive verbs (Vt) take an object, whereas intransitive ones (Vi) do not.

Examples

They do not sell telephone directories. (Vt)

Textbooks sell very well at the beginning of the school year. (Vi)

- A number of verbs, like sell, are both transitive and intransitive. It is thus more accurate to talk of transitive and intransitive uses.
- Some verbs, transitive or intransitive, require an adverbial to complete the meaning.

Example

The lady then put the guidebook down

Read the following passage, and decide whether the underlined verbs are transitively or intransitively used by putting them in the right columns. Two examples have been given.

There are several different kinds of faults in reading, which are usually more exaggerated with foreign learners. The most common one is that most people read slower than they should. There is no rate at which people ought to read, of course; it depends on your purpose in reading, how difficult the language is, how unfamiliar the material is, and so on. But most people read everything at the same slow speed, and do not seem to realize that they can read faster or slower as required. Other people say the words to themselves, or move their lips – these habits slow the reader down to something near speaking speed, which is, of course, much slower than reading speed. Another habit which can slow you down is following the line with your finger, or with a pen.

If you want to be able to read faster, the secret is simply to practice under timed conditions. This means that you should give yourself a certain amount of time to read with understanding, then check your time when you have finished. It is stated by many researchers that students who have practiced fast reading even for only an hour a week, have shown average improvements of over 50% over a term of ten weeks' duration. Reading fast does not necessarily mean reading with less comprehension – in fact, usually students show a small increase in comprehension as well as a dramatic increase in speed.

Reading Text

Read four precautions for safety when you practice some water sports and do the tasks that follow.

Precautions for Safety

Diving from a Diving Board

- Be sure how deep the water is before you dive.
- Warm your body up before plunging into the water so as to prevent cramp.
- Don't swim or dive alone.
- Dive with your head up, arms up and extended over your head during dive.
- Don't drink and dive. The effects of alcohol can be extremely dangerous in diving.

Jet-Skiing

- Learn to swim in case you fall off the watercraft.
- Wear a life vest.
- Make sure the water and weather conditions are safe.
- Be cautious when you are near swimmers and surfers.
- Stay at least 30 meters from other boats and personal watercrafts.
- Never use a personal watercraft if you have been drinking any amount of alcohol.

Water-Skiing

- Don't water-ski when in bad weather – stop any activities when you hear or see a storm.
- Stay well clear of other boats, docks, or obstacles.
- Be sure there is an observer who can keep an eye on you and send messages to the driver.
- Equip the boat with a rear view mirror so that the driver can see you.
- Wear a life vest.

Scuba Diving

- Get a medical examination and a swim test before learning scuba diving.
- Check the equipment carefully and know how it functions.
- Never dive alone – you may get lost or trapped in the rocks.
- Know local weather conditions – don't swim if it rains or a storm is coming. Water conducts electricity.
- Don't rise too quickly to the surface. A sudden rise can be deadly.

a) Where are the extracts above most likely found?

1. In a newspaper.
2. In a leaflet issued by the Red Cross.
3. In a brochure of a tourism agency.

b) Scan the extracts for the precaution tips about the 4 sports. Check the correct boxes.

	Diving	Jet-skiing	Water-skiing	Scuba diving
1. Avoid drinking alcohol.
2. Be with a companion or helper.
3. Know how to swim.
4. Stay away from other boats.
5. Never practice in bad weather.
6. Take a prior medical checkup.
7. Wear a life vest.

c) Work in pairs. Discuss and answer the questions.

1. Why shouldn't people drink alcohol before practicing some sports?
2. What may happen if people stay in water when it rains or a storm is coming?
3. Why shouldn't a scuba diver rise to the surface of the water too quickly?

d) With a partner, choose one water sport and write precaution tips for it (for example, swimming, rowing, surfing, ...).

LISTENING

a) Discuss with a partner to answer the questions.

READING

Read the following passage and do the tasks that follow.

Nancy Masterson Sakamoto was born in the United States, but has lived and taught English in Japan. She is currently a professor of American Studies at Shitennoji Gakuen University, Hawaii Institute. The following selection is an excerpt from her textbook, Polite Fiction (1982).

After I was married and had lived in Japan for a while, my Japanese gradually improved to the point where I could take part in simple conversations with my husband, his friends, and family. And I began to notice that often, when I joined in, the others would look startled, and the conversational topic would come to a halt. After this happened several times, it became clear to me that I was doing something wrong. But for a long time, I didn't know what it was.

Finally, after listening carefully to many Japanese conversations, I discovered what my problem was. Even though I was speaking Japanese, I was handling the conversation in a Western way.

A Western-style conversation between two people is like a game of tennis. If I introduce a topic, a conversational ball, I expect you to hit it back. If you agree with me, I don't expect you simply to agree and do nothing more. I expect you to add something – a reason for agreeing, another example, or an elaboration to carry the idea further. But I don't expect you always to agree. I am just as happy if you question me, or challenge me, or completely disagree with me. Whether you agree or disagree, your response will return the ball to me.

A Japanese-style conversation, however, is not at all like tennis or volleyball. It's like bowling. You wait for your turn. And you always know your place in line. It depends on such things as whether you are older or younger, a close friend or a relative stranger to the previous speaker, in a senior or junior position, and so on.

Then, after everyone is sure that you have completely finished your turn, the next person in line steps up to the same starting line, with a different ball. He doesn't return your ball, and he doesn't begin from where your ball stopped. There is no back and forth at all. All the balls run parallel. And there is always a suitable pause between turns. There is no rush, no excitement, no scramble for the ball.

No wonder everyone looked startled when I took part in Japanese conversations. I paid no attention to whose turn it was, and kept snatching the ball halfway down the alley and throwing it back at the bowler. Of course, the conversation died. I was playing the wrong game.

a) Circle the letter (A, B, C, or D) representing the best item to complete each sentence.

1. The writer couldn't converse well with her Japanese acquaintances because _____.
 - A. she doesn't speak Japanese well
 - B. she talked in a Western style
 - C. she couldn't speak Japanese
 - D. she talked in a Japanese style
2. The writer compared conversations with _____.
 - A. ball games
 - B. Western ways of living
 - C. questions of politeness
 - D. cultural problems
3. Finally, the writer _____.
 - A. ignored her problem in conversations with her Japanese acquaintances
 - B. preferred the Japanese-style conversations
 - C. preferred the Western-style conversations
 - D. realized her problem in conversations with her Japanese acquaintances
4. The Japanese-style conversations _____.
 - A. are as communicative as the Western-style
 - B. depend on the relationship between the speakers
 - C. are of the traditional style
 - D. are of the modern style

SOUTHEAST ASIAN GAMES FEDERATION

The Southeast Asian Games (SEA Games) is a biennial multi-sport event involving participants from the current 11 countries of Southeast Asia. The regional sports event under the regulation of the Southeast Asian Games Federation helps promote cooperation, solidarity, and mutual understanding among the countries in the Southeast Asian region.

The Southeast Asian Games owes its origin to the Southeast Asian Peninsular Games or SEAP Games. On May 22, 1958, delegates from the countries in the Southeast Asian peninsula attending the 3rd Asian Games in Tokyo, Japan, had a meeting and agreed to establish this sport organization. The first SEAP Games was held in Bangkok from December 12 to 17, 1959, comprising more than 527 athletes and officials from Thailand, Myanmar, Malaysia, Singapore, Viet Nam, and Laos. When Indonesia and the Philippines were formally admitted in 1977, the Games changed its name to the Southeast Asian Games. Brunei was admitted at the 10th SEA Games in Jakarta, Indonesia, and East Timor became the 11th member at the 22nd SEA Games in Ha Noi, Viet Nam.

There are competitions to design the SEA Games mascot, emblem, and hymn. People purchase SEA Games mascots as souvenirs of the events. The golden water buffalo – trau vang – was chosen as the mascot for the 22nd SEA Games in Viet Nam. To the Vietnamese people, the golden water buffalo symbolizes a golden harvest, prosperity, and happiness. The 23rd SEA Games mascot eagle is a symbol of elegance, strength, and pride of the Philippines. The 24th SEA Games mascot cat was believed to bring good luck and prosperity to the Thai people. The emblem is also designed for the host country. The 22nd SEA Games emblem was the representation of a legendary bird named chim Lac, which decorated the Ngoc Lu bronze drum. Its harmonious and vigorous curves created a feeling of movement and strength. The 22nd SEA Games song For the World of Tomorrow was heard everywhere in Viet Nam during the event. The merrier the atmosphere is, the "Faster, Higher, and Stronger" the athletes are.

The sport organization proves to be more and more successful as the number of its sports and participants has become larger and larger. The Games is really a celebration to promote friendship among Southeast Asian countries.

WRITING

Writing an Article

a) Read the school magazine article about sepak takraw, a sport of the SEA Games and complete the sentences that follow.

Sepak Takraw – A Cross Between Soccer and Volleyball

You play volleyball, but you're only allowed to use your feet and heads to hit the ball as in soccer. It's sepak takraw, which is a popular sport in Southeast Asia.

Sepak takraw was originally based on a Chinese game of kicking a ball. The sport spread to Malaysia and Thailand five centuries ago. It was called takraw in Thai or sepak (literally "kick a ball") in Malay. In 1965, the sport was included in the SEAP Games with the name sepak takraw by combining the Malaysian and Thai names for the sport.

A match of sepak takraw is played by two teams, each consisting of three players. Players use their feet and heads to hit a ball, which is made of rattan, over the net. The rules are similar to those of volleyball. The game is played in 2 sets with a two-minute rest in between. The winning point for a set is 21 points.

It seems that players are dancing when they play with the ball. It's one of the most exciting games you can see and play.

1. This article is mostly written for _____.
2. A magazine article needs a _____ to catch readers' attention.
3. The _____ paragraph interests readers and encourages them to read on.
4. The 2nd paragraph tells readers about the _____ of sepak takraw.

Reading Text

Read the text and do the tasks that follow.

A. Throughout most of Western history, women were confined to the domestic sphere, while public life was reserved for men. In medieval Europe, women were denied the right to own property, to study, or to participate in public life. At the end of the 19th century in France, women were still compelled to cover their heads in public, and, in parts of Germany, a husband still had the right to sell his wife.

B. Even as late as the early 20th century, women in the United States could neither vote nor hold elective office. Women were prevented from conducting business without a male representative who might be their fathers, brothers, husbands, legal agents, or even sons. Married women could not exercise control over their own children without the permission of their husbands. Moreover, women had little or no access to education and were barred from most professions.

C. Women have always had lower status than men, but the extent of the gap between sexes varies across cultures and time. In 1980, the U.N. summed up the burden of this inequality: women comprise half of the world's population, do two thirds of the world's work, but earn one tenth of the world's income, and own one hundredth of the world's property. Women in the U.S., however, have joined together to create the so-called "Women's Liberation Movement." Thanks to the development of effective birth-control methods and of mechanized labor-saving devices for the home, women have more freedom in life. Their role in society has been greatly overlooked in the last few decades. It soon caught on that women should have a bigger role than what was thought they should have.

D. Women have made vast improvements in their lifestyles. They are holding high positions in governments, universities, and businesses. Without women, a man wouldn't have the comfort of someone by his side through rough and bad times. Regardless, women will always be important to society because they bring a lot of love and emotion to life.

Making a Request for Recommendation

a) Mai is applying for a scholarship to a university in Britain. She needs recommendation letters from the teachers of her school. Follow the following outline and help Mai write a letter to the principal of her school.

Outline

Introduction: Give reasons for making the request and mention the position applied for.

Body:

- Request to use name for recommendation.
- Write full suggestions of what the recommendation should stress.

Conclusion: Express gratitude.

Dear Mr. Tan

The scholarship of _____ University has just been advertised and I have decided _____ for it. I wonder if you would be kind enough to let me use your name as one who will write a recommendation letter for me. And would you please send me _____?

Although you have not been acquainted with my work since I left the school _____ ago, it would be sufficient if you were able to speak about my time at _____ High School.

I would be most grateful if you could say a few words on my behalf.

Yours sincerely

Mai

The ASEAN Youth Camp project involves the youth from ASEAN member countries in a variety of youth-oriented cultural activities through which young people can understand and learn how to appreciate the region's history and culture. The ASEAN Youth Camp is a key project of the ASEAN Committee on Culture and Information. It began as the ASEAN Youth Friend Program, held in the Philippines in 1998 and Thailand in 1999. Since its establishment, the ASEAN Youth Camp has been exposing young people to the arts, crafts, and culture of ASEAN and contributing to the development of future cultural leadership in the region.

The first ASEAN Youth Camp took place in Thailand in 2000 with the theme "Cultural Heritage." Since then, the Camp has been held regularly in different member countries. The 2001 Camp in Malaysia took up the theme "Trail of Unity." With the theme "Honoring Kindness Through the Arts" in the Myanmar Youth Camp in 2002, the fifty young people picked out to attend the Camp in twelve days had the opportunity to take part in workshops and activities ranging from painting, creative writing, singing, and dancing. The 2004 and 2005 Camps in Laos and Cambodia had the themes "Culture for Peace and Development" and "The Role of Youth in the Culture Heritage," respectively. In each Camp, participants immersed themselves in the traditional cultural activities of the host country and paid visits to some of the cultural sites such as museums and temples.

The theme of the sixth ASEAN Youth Camp in January 2006 was "Water and the Arts," chosen by the host country – Brunei Darussalam. It brought out the important role of water in shaping the civilizations and cultures of the ASEAN member countries. All the presentations and activities at the Camp echoed that theme. With its various activities, the Camp has set up a stronger regional identity by raising youth's awareness of Southeast Asia's history and heritage. Over the years, the aims of the Camp have also expanded to keep ASEAN's cultures and heritage alive.

READING

Read the paragraphs and do the tasks that follow.

A1 A. Red Cross is an international humanitarian agency reducing the sufferings of wounded soldiers, civilians, and prisoners in time of war. In time of peace, it provides medical aid and other help to people affected by natural disasters such as floods, earthquakes, epidemics, and famines, and performs other public service functions.

B1 B. Founded in 1992 by Prof. Fred Hollows in Australia, the Fred Hollows Foundation has helped almost 1,000,000 people worldwide out of cataract blindness, a major eye problem for the poor and the rural population. The organization has also cooperated with local blindness prevention agencies in more than 29 countries such as Viet Nam, Thailand, China, and India to treat and prevent avoidable blindness with new technologies.

C. The International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement consists of the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC), more than 160 national Red Cross societies, and the Geneva-based International Federation of the Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies, which coordinates peacetime activities of the national societies.

D. The International Conference of the Red Cross, held every four years in different countries, brings together representatives of the Red Cross organizations and those governments that have ratified the Geneva conventions. In 1986 the Movement's name was changed to include the Red Crescent. The Viet Nam Red Cross Society was founded in November, 1946, and was recognized by the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement in November 1957.

E. Viet Nam became the Fred Hollows Foundation's third international project after Eritrea and Nepal. According to official statistics, more than 60,000 cataract blindness operations are performed each year in Viet Nam. Many local surgeons have been trained in order to spread the new techniques nationwide, and help reduce the number of people suffering cataract blindness.
